

Giving children a voice

Think about how many times children 'have a voice' in a day in your setting.

Could there be more opportunities for every child to have quality time to talk and give their views?

- Try asking the children about what they liked the most (or least) about their day
- When changing the theme of your home corner/role play area, discuss the options with the children and allow a vote.

