children's nurseries: advice, information and support for parents

Advice for parents on children's nurseries

Nurseries are a great childcare choice for your family, and can offer you flexibility and high-quality care.

There are likely to be a number of nurseries in your local area, and it is important that you find the one that is right for both your child and you. Children's nurseries come in all shapes and sizes, and many now offer a range of flexible care patterns including, part-time, morning and afternoon sessions.

Please select a link below for further support, information and advice on choosing a nursery, paying for childcare, nursery inspection and regulation, quality improvement and much more. All information is brought to you by National Day Nurseries Association, the national charity promoting quality childcare.
