

‘Ask me about’ stickers

Help develop conversation skills and children's interests with this myNDNA tip.

This is a simple but very effective way of helping children to develop communication and language skills and encourages parents to talk to their children about what they have enjoyed about their day at nursery.

Here's how:

- You can purchase sticky labels quite cheaply in many stores
- Print ‘Ask me about...’ on the labels or write on them by hand
- Write one wonderful thing that each child has really engaged in, enjoyed, persevered at or achieved in their day
- You could create other labels with prompts to encourage conversations around a specific area of learning or focus.
