

Celebrating families

It is important to celebrate families and their importance. Through ideas in this tip children can consider their own family relationships as well as differences and similarities with others and celebrate what makes them unique.

Ideas for celebrating the family environment

April 10th is National Siblings Day so why not celebrate this day in your setting by celebrating all your families?

Talk about siblings, cousins, friends and the unique aspect of families.

Why not create a families event such as a tea party or stay and play?

Encourage families to share photos of their family members and create a display.

Create a family book for each child and include family members, items and events that are important to children.
