

Maths Day

Why not hold a Maths Day across your setting to encourage children to develop their skills and interest in the subject!

Each room can design their own maths activities based on their children's ages, stages and interests.

But why not visit the different rooms with different groups of children so they can all have a go at the activities?

This will not only engage children in more maths activities but also help your development as a practitioner to see other practitioners' ideas and how they set up their activities.

Why not extend it into the home by providing parents with simple ideas for maths, e.g. filling and emptying containers at bath time?
